In September 2013 we officially opened our state-of-the-art interactive video conferencing studio, including a green screen, or Chroma key, wall. The McMillen Center is using green screen technology to demonstrate larger-than-life education. This equipment is also being used to create high tech, health literacy videography and motion graphics to deliver parent and community education, alongside our traditional health instruction.

This technology presents the opportunity for the McMillen Center to continue to grow in the future and to move into new markets.
Our Brush!® Early Childhood Oral Health Program kicked off in October 2012. Through the program, children aged birth to five, and their parents, are being educated about the importance of primary (baby) teeth and how oral health relates to school success. In the pilot year, 2012-2013, our educators reached 1,882 students through the Brush!® program.

The 2014-2015 school year will see expansions into neighboring states and an estimated 25,000 students enrolled in the Brush!® program - over ten times the students from the first year!
The McMillen Center for Health Education educates youth and adults from around the country and into Canada. Our education includes in-house and outreach programs as well as interactive video conferencing. Almost half of the students we educate are within an hour of Fort Wayne. Since opening in 1981, more than 1.65 million students have learned about their amazing bodies. We reached a record 41,155 youth and adults this year!

The success of the McMillen Center continues to be cultured by the generous support we receive from our donors, including foundations, individuals, and corporate sponsorships.

On June 19th, in partnership with Great KIDS make Great COMMUNITIES, we presented a day-long seminar at IPFW featuring Purdue University ostracism expert Dr. Kip Williams. At the day-long conference, multiple local experts shared their knowledge about bullying and ostracism. After a series of breakout sessions, the attendees were treated to a showing of “REJECT” a documentary film featuring Kip Williams’ research, followed by a panel discussion. The McMillen Health Lecture Series continues on February 5, 2015 when we will present the Interprofessional Children’s Oral Health Summit at the Grand Wayne Center.
At the third annual Vitality Awards, held on May 15th, we honored those helping to create a vital, healthy community, by working in the areas of healthcare, health education, wellness, and prevention. This year’s Janus Award winner, John McMillen, was honored for his visionary thinking, tireless involvement, and community contributions to health and wellness. Other award recipients included Suzy Beard, Marita Dwight-Smith, Nancy Louraine, Sue Ehinger, and this year’s Student Ambassador Ashley Anglin.

The fourth annual Vitality Awards will be held on May 14th, 2015 at the Landmark Centre.
