

Think About It

The World of Relationships

We each have a variety of relationships, both formal and informal. Different types of relationships, however, require different types of behavior.

Write in each part of the diagram which behaviors you would use with each type of relationship. Use the words in the word bank below and your own ideas. If you would use a behavior with both, write it in the middle. The first one has been done for you. Asking for help is a behavior that you might use in a formal and informal relationship, so it has been placed in "Both".

Asking for help
Asking permission
Asking questions
Being accountable
Being assertive
Being emotional
Being honest
Being respectful
Being thoughtful

Being trustworthy
Feeling safe
Hanging out
Joking
Listening carefully
Making personal calls
Meeting deadlines
No cursing

Partying
Playing pranks
Punctuality
Texting
Using correct grammar
Using salutations (Mr./Ms.)
Using Slang
Waiting turn to speak

Formal Relationships

Both

Informal Relationships

Asking for help

